

CHARACTER SHEET

A fill-in template. The first half is mechanical (what the dice need). The second half is who they are when the dice aren't rolling — the part that makes the character feel real at the table.
Fill what you can. Leave the rest blank until play surprises you with the answer.

X. WHO THEY ARE (THE PART THAT ISN'T MATH)

This half makes the character matter. Fill in what feels right. Leave the rest empty — your character has secrets even you don't know yet.

At a glance

One sentence: what someone sees when your character walks into a tavern.

Voice and manner

How they sound. How they carry themselves. Is their voice low or high, fast or slow? Do they make eye contact? Do they fidget?

One weird thing

A mannerism, a tic, a habit. Polishes the same coin. Counts to three before drinking. Smiles when nervous.

Loves · Fears · Hides

LOVES:

FEARS:

HIDES:

(something the rest of the party doesn't know yet)

Faith, code, or loyalty

What does your character swear by? Could be a god, a person, an oath, a creed, a debt, a memory.

Three lines of backstory

Don't write a novel. Three sentences total. Where they're from, what they did, why they're here.

1.

2.

3.

A scar or mark with a story

Physical or metaphorical. The one thing they won't talk about, except sometimes, when drunk, very late, to the right person.

A keepsake

Mechanically: nothing. Sentimentally: everything. A letter. A ring. A child's toy. A pressed flower.

WHAT:

WHY:

Tastes

FAVORITE FOOD:

FAVORITE DRINK:

FAVORITE SONG OR SAYING:

A line they will not cross

What would your character refuse to do, even at the cost of failure or death? This is the thing other PCs and the GM will eventually test.

› A wish

If the world owed them one thing — and could grant it — what would they ask for?

XI. CONNECTIONS

The people who know your character. Some give you allies; some give you debts; some give the GM hooks.

› A connection from before

Someone who knew your character before this adventure. A mentor, a sibling, a rival, an old flame.

NAME:

WHAT THEY ARE:

WHERE:

STATUS:

☐ alive

☐ missing

☐ dead

☐ complicated

› A debt

Owed by you, or to you. Money, blood, favor, or memory.

TO/FROM:

WHAT:

OPEN?

☐ yes

☐ paid

☐ one day

› A party connection

Pick another player at the table. How do your characters know each other? Discuss with them.

WHO:

HOW:

WHAT THEY OWE EACH OTHER:

XII. JOURNAL

Fill in as you play. The character's voice, not yours.

› Quests

› People met

NAME	IMPRESSION

› Places been

› Things learned

› A line from this session

Something your character said, or something said to them, that you want to remember.

XIII. LEVEL-UP TRACKER

Fill this in as you level. A small habit that makes leveling feel like a moment.

LEVEL	HP GAIN	FEATURE / NOTE
2	_____
3	_____
4	_____	(ability
+1)
5	_____	(new spell)
6	_____
7	_____	(ability
+1)
8	_____	(new spell)
9	_____
10	_____	(ability
+1, capstone)

XIV. THE BRIEF

A one-page version of who your character is, for when someone at the table asks "so, who are you again?"

I am

a

who

because

and what I want, more than anything, is but what would stop me is

Print double-sided. Keep section X handy. The dice will tell you what your character does. The rest of the sheet tells you who's doing it.
